Columbus, GA 31999

Dear Mr. Amos:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Mr. Daniel P. Amos

Owings Mills, MD 21117

Dear Mr. Burrell:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Dear Mr. Hemsley:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Dear Dr. Lufrano:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Dr. Robert I. Lufrano

Dear Mr. Neidorff:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

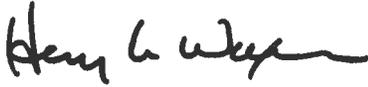

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Dear Mr. Barasch:

We write to clarify a letter we sent to you earlier this month. In the letter, the Energy and Commerce Committee requested certain information and documents to shed light on the business practices of health insurance companies.

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

Mr. Richard A. Barasch

The focus of the Committee's inquiry is companies that sell comprehensive health insurance policies. We have learned that several of the companies that received our letter sell no comprehensive health insurance or have only a minimal health insurance business that is ancillary to their primary business. If your company's insurance business does not include a material amount of revenue from sales of comprehensive health insurance products, please contact the Committee to discuss whether you may be exempt from some, or all, of the investigative requests.

Among its requests, the Committee seeks compensation information from 2003 to 2008 for all employees and officers who received more than $500,000 in one year. In responding to this request, there is no need to provide the Committee with the names of individual employees and officers. While your response should include the title or a description of each individual's position, you may assign a code or some other anonymous identifier to avoid disclosure of an individual's identity in your response.

If you have any questions regarding this request, please contact David Leviss or Stacia Cardille with the Committee staff at (202) 226-2424.

Sincerely,
