

Congress of the United States
Washington, DC 20510

October 22, 2009

The Honorable Julius Genachowski
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear Chairman Genachowski:

Today, the Federal Communications Commission adopted a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking concerning the establishment of rules designed to preserve and protect the open nature of the Internet. We have each, in the past, voiced our support for policies that protect consumers and promote an open Internet. Our positions have not changed.

We write to support your efforts to conduct this rulemaking in an open and transparent manner that is fair to all parties. We expect that the Commission will make every effort to consider all voices prior to voting on final rules.

We believe this issue deserves nothing less from the Commission, and we look forward to working with you and your staff as this process goes forward.

Sincerely,

John D. Rockefeller IV
Chairman
Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation

Henry A. Waxman
Chairman
Committee on Energy and Commerce
